

View this email in your browser

What are the guiding principles of science journalism?

It's a big question, and one that the WFSJ, the Kavli Foundation, and Brazil's National Institute of Public Communication of Science and Technology would like you to help us answer. We cordially invite you and other science journalists around the world to participate in a global survey of the experiences and insights that have shaped your professional life. The findings from this inquiry will reveal the principles that define this field and the values held by practitioners like you. This survey is available in seven languages: English, Arabic, Chinese, Portuguese, Spanish, French and Russian. Please follow one of these links for a formal invitation and a link to the survey in the language of your choice. We thank you in advance for your assistance in tackling one of the major challenges of our profession!

English: <https://wfsj.org/news/add-your-voice-to-a-global-chorus/>

Arabic: <https://wfsj.org/news/أضف-صوتك-إلى-أصوات-الصحفيين-والصحفيات/>

Chinese: <https://wfsj.org/news/欢迎参加全球新闻记者观点调查/>

Portuguese: <https://wfsj.org/news/junte-sua-voz-a-um-coro-global/>

Spanish: <https://wfsj.org/news/sume-su-voz-a-un-coro-global/>

French: <https://wfsj.org/news/ajoutez-votre-voix-a-un-choeur-mondial/>

Russian: <https://wfsj.org/news/ваше-мнение-очень-важно/>

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

Copyright © 2022 WFSJ, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.